Atharv was a student of class 6th, who was good at painting. One day, his friends Adhishree and Aashi came to play with him. They decided to do some painting activities. Aashi saw Atharv's painting and was pleased with it. She wanted to learn painting from him. But he said, "Drawing? And you? You would not be able to do such good paintings like me, who won many awards in the school and city for the best paintings. You can't just draw a house only so try to do so first." Aashi felt bad by such behaviour of Atharv, but she kept silence. They continued working on their paintings. After Adhishree and Aashi left for their places, Atharv's dada ji called him and asked "Atharv, have you made any mistake today, when you were discussing with your friends on paintings? Atharv replied- "No dada ji". Dada ji said, "You had shown arrogance and attitude about your qualities i.e. your good painting skills. Let me tell you one story from Shiv Puran. In Shiv Puran there is one incident around Shri Balram ji and Shri Romaharshan. Once, Balram ji was on a Tirth Yatra. On the way, he reached 'Naimisharanya', where many saints performed rituals. There was a Sage named Shri Romaharshan were narrating puran. You know, Shri Ved Vyas ji himself chose Romaharshan ji for this divine duty, and honoured him to explain all other sage knowledge of Veds and Dharm. When Balram ji reached there, every saint went to him to greet and offer honour, except Shri Romaharshan. When Balram ji asked the reason, Romaharshan said, "I am very learned sage and I am respected by everyone, why I should break my flow of recitation the puran, to just meet you?" Listening this Shri Balram got very angry and thought, that he does not deserves to live a great life. Then he killed him as a punishment of his selfishness and arrogance. Other sages were shocked with this and inform to Balram ji that death of Shri Romaharshan, interrupted the sacred recitation and based on request of those sages, Shri Balram ji assigned Shri Ugrashrava, the son of Shri Romaharshan to continue duty of recitation of puran. Dadaji ended the story and asked to Atharv- "what do you understand from this story?"

Atharv said "I understood that showing off the qualities is not a good thing and no matter how learned you are, humility is the irreplaceable." He then promised that going forward he will not show off his painting skills and he will respect his friends.

Winter White

Branches of these evergreen
Are dressed in snowy white,
As soft as the moonlight sparkles,
On this blanket of the night
Delicate, untouched and pure
Is found on the ground below
As the gentle moon beams glitter,
On the freshly fallen snow

Clouds of Despair

I was at loggerheads with my pessimistic mind,
It took me on a ride that influenced me to say behind.
The ride of anxiety, fatigue, lack in dealing with concentration
and many more in this line,
This drastically led to my potential's decline.
But a thought came in my head one day,
Am I satisfied with a life living like this way?
The obvious answer was no and still it wasn't a delay,
I made my mind to fight this astray.

A person's subsistence is true when he is with a goal,
An inner cry to achieve the best he could from the whole.

When despaired I had a word
with my soul,
It kindled me with hope
and also consoled.

Never give up
Look at the pilots fly
Up away in the beaming blue sky
Never give up
Look at the soldiers fight
All day and all night
Never give up
Look at the knights
Protecting the tower! All wise in disguise!
Never give up
Can't you see
All the respect and things these people achieve!
Never give up

Why You? Why Not Me?

I remember a day when I went to buy some sweets with one of my friends, few years ago. When the shopkeeper was packing the box of sweets in a poly bag, my friend refused to take it and told to give packet only.

I asked my friend, "What's the point in doing this?"

She replied, "If I can save environment by refusing one poly bag a day, why not?"

I asked, "What is the point of you doing this when everyone is not doing so?"

She replied, "One poly bag a day, means 365 poly bags in a year and as my whole family of four members, follows this rule than $365 \times 4 = 1,460$."

She continued "If we all four inspire at least one person in a year then it will become a good habit which we can pass it on."

I was surprised and shocked with her calculative and logical approach and replied "Yes my dear friend." "You already inspired one person today and I will definitely pass it on."

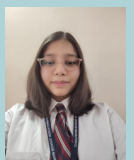

We often feel, 'How can one person bring the change?'

But that day I have learnt that if I will change my way of thinking and rather than talking, start some actions to save the environment. I can also bring change in the world.

We have examples like Sundar Lal Bahuguna who led the 'Chipko movement' and Jadav Payeng who created a 'man made forest' alone. Yes I learned to reuse and most importantly refuse to take things not needed. For example, I refuse buying clothes when not needed, I refuse polybags and always carry a bag to the market places, I don't use shower but use bucket to bath, etc.

I am the one who would like to inspire more and more people to inculcate habits of saving the environment and the world.

Let's make the world a better place for you and for me and the entire living being.

The Call for a New Relationship and Innovations with Nature*

Deep emotions can be stirred by the sight of a sunset, the sound of a river running, or the aroma of blossoming flowers, which serves as a reminder of the beauty that exists outside of human conception.

To truly appreciate nature, we need to move away from a dominance mindset and toward stewardship, which means acknowledging that we are an integral part of nature rather than something separate from it. Our actions should be a reflection of a deep respect for the natural world, recognizing the intrinsic value of every species and ecosystem. Innovative approaches like biomimicry, in which solutions are inspired by natural processes, show how nature can direct sustainable development. Like- Kingfisher inspired Bullet train, Whale fin inspired wind turbines, Falcon inspired Aircrafts and so on. By observing and learning from nature, we can create systems that are both efficient and environmentally friendly.

Nature is more than a resource; it is a source of wisdom, beauty, and life. As we navigate the challenges of the modern world, it is crucial to reestablish a deep, respectful connection with the natural world. By doing so, we can ensure that future generations inherit a planet that continues to thrive, just as nature has always intended.

अनमोल रत्न - बेटियाँ
नन्हें कदमों से जीवन में आतीं हैं बेटियाँ ।
मधुर आवाज़ की झंकार बिखेरतीं हैं ये बेटियाँ ॥
बेटों से बढ़कर होतीं हैं ये बेटियाँ ।
अपने पिता का गुरूर होतीं हैं ये बेटियाँ ॥
घर हो या बाहर की रूपहली दुनिया ।
हर रंग में खुद को सँवारतीं हैं बेटियाँ ॥
बेटी से माता बन गई , भाई की बन कर बहना ।
हर रूप में दर्द को हँसकर सह जातीं हैं ये बेटियाँ ॥
चेहरे पर किसी भी शिकन के बिना ।
हर रिश्ते को दिल से निभातीं हैं ये बेटियाँ ॥
एक घरौंदा छोड़ देने के बाद भी ।
दूसरों का आशियाना बसातीं हैं ये बेटियाँ ॥
गर्मी और तपती धूप में ।
बारिश की ठंडक दे जातीं हैं ये बेटियाँ ॥
खुशकिस्मत हैं वो लोग जिनके घर आतीं हैं ये बेटियाँ ।
ऐसे ही नहीं लक्ष्मी दुर्गा का रूप कहलातीं हैं ये बेटियाँ ॥
