The Beauty of our world

The world unfolds like a painted scene,
With skies so blue and fields so green,
Mountains tall with snowy crowns,
Rivers rushing past quiet towns.
Sunrise spills a golden hue,
while evening casts a purple view,
Oceans dance with waves so deep,
And forests whisper secrets to keep.
Flowers bloom in colours bright,
Stars awake to fill the night,
Each leaf, each stone, a story told,
Of lands both young and mountains old.

My Dad

My dad often sad,
But never afraid.
He teaches in a school,
But never goes in the swimming pool.
We play cricket together,
But not in bad weather.
I can read and write because of my dad,
He tells me what is good and what is bad.
When I say to teach me any subect,
He never rejects.
He is thin not like a matchstick,
But however he is fantastic.
We can't say him mad,
Because he is my dad.

Say No to Mobile:
Let's Talk and Play!

Excessive mobile use can be harmful to our health, relationships and studies. While mobiles are useful, we need to set boundaries and say "No" to them sometimes. When we are glued to our screens, we miss out on precious moments with family and friends. Imagine a world where we put down our mobiles and engage in outdoor games, sports or hobbies. We can play cricket, football or hide and seek with friends, or try hand at painting, drawing or music.

By saying no to mobiles, we can improve our eyesight, sleep and concentration. We can focus better on our studies and build stronger relationships with those around us.

Let's make a conscious effort to limit our mobile use and engage in activities that bring us happiness and fulfillment.

Mr. Common Man

Mr. Common Man,
He always ran
Sometimes from taxes, rent or just people.
But he could do nothing.
He's not a star,
has a small car
He's tired, helpless and jealous.
Let's make this world a better place for a common man.
Come with me,
and become a kindness fan,
learn to become kind
and change your mind.

अपनी रेल

आओ भाई, खेलें खेल,
छुक-छुक करती अपनी रेल ।

सीटी देकर चलती रेल,
कैसा है यह बढ़िया खेल ।

टिकट-विकट का काम नहीं है,
लगता कुछ भी दाम नहीं है।

स्टेशन आ गया रुक गई रेल,
हुआ खत्म अब अपना खेल ।।

Lost in the Maze

It was 8:00 AM. I jolted awake, heart pounding, as the shrill ring of my phone shattered the morning silence. I grabbed the call.

"Vipul speaking—Hello."

"Ravi here—we've got a crisis! Rocky has escaped from the prison—you know they're dangerous, sharp-shooting, powerhouse criminals. Gear up and find him. I've shared the location."

I leapt into action, racing to my Thar. The engine roared as I sped toward the coordinates, arriving in minutes. Before me loomed a sprawling, shadowy maze with four ominous paths: A, B, C, and D. The air crackled with tension.

I chose path A first. It stretched into a dark, twisting corridor. Suddenly, a suitcase lay open, revealing a massive octopus with glowing, menacing eyes that seemed to pulse with evil intent. Its tentacles lashed out! I dove aside, heart racing, and bolted back, shouting for Ravi. We went into path D. There, Ravi spotted a figure in tattered prisoner's shirt and pants, looking like a phantom. It was Rocky! We gave chase through dangerous traps—spikes sprang from the walls, and a chasm nearly swallowed us. With a daring leap, I tackled Rocky as he fired a wild shot. Vipul pinned him down. Mission accomplished! Gasping, we dragged the struggling fugitive back to prison.

A Parent's Gratitude

Within these walls my child has grown,
Her brightest seeds of learning sown.
Each gentle hand, each guiding voice,
Has shaped her mind, her heart, her choice.

The books she reads, the songs she sings,
The joy of knowing simple things—
Each day she learns, each step she takes,
A stronger world her school now makes.

Her laughter rings, her questions rise,
With shining hope within her eyes.
I see the care, the love, the art,
That builds her spirit, shapes her heart.

So here I stand, with thanks so true,
For all the teachers, kind and new.
This gift of learning, pure and bright,
Will guide her path with steady light.

"Till horizon our sight goes,
Blessings of lord and merry echoes, In Choithram School our child grows"

Navigating the transition from home to school at CSNC was a transformative journey for my daughters. The curriculum at Choithram represents a fresh educational approach, prioritizing critical thinking and real-world application. Our children have greatly benefited from the smaller class sizes and interactive teaching methods. Ongoing evaluations have provided them with regular feedback, enhancing their overall growth. The educators at CSNC are more than just teachers; they are dedicated mentors who genuinely care about each student's success. Their approachability and commitment have greatly aided the overall growth and shaping the bright future of our daughters. The Principal's philosophy of prioritizing students' needs is evident in all aspects of Choithram School. This approach ensures a holistic educational experience. Classrooms, labs, and other resources are great, contributing significantly to the childs' all-round development. Choithram School has enriched their educational journey by instilling a global perspective and fostering a genuine passion for learning.

Gratitude is the Best Attitude

Gratitude simply means being thankful for what we have – our family, friends, teachers, health, and even the small joys of life. Many times, we keep thinking about what we don't have, instead of appreciating the blessings already around us. But when we learn to say a simple "thank you," life becomes more positive and beautiful.

Having gratitude does not mean only saying thanks with words. It means showing appreciation through our actions, kindness, and respect. For example, when we respect our teachers, help our parents at home, share with friends, or take care of nature, we are actually practicing gratitude.

Gratitude also makes us happier and calmer. A grateful heart sees opportunities even in problems. Instead of complaining, we learn to value what we already have. It improves our relationships, brings peace of mind, and makes us better human beings.

As students, we must remember that every book, every lesson, and every bit of guidance from elders is a gift. Let us make "Gratitude our Attitude" and spread positivity wherever we go. A thankful heart is always a joyful heart!

Grace: The Secret to Success

"When you run alone, it's called race, and when God runs with you, it's called grace."

Children run little races every day—finishing homework on time, answering quickly in class or shining in activities. Winning surely brings joy, but life is not only about racing ahead, it is also about running with grace.

When we run alone, it is a race. But when we invite God to run with us, it becomes grace. Grace means having faith, patience, courage and kindness in our journey. It is not about who comes first, but about how beautifully and honestly we run.

In every small step, when children learn to value honesty over shortcuts, kindness over competition and effort over results, they are already winners. With God's grace, every race becomes meaningful, every effort brings joy, and every child shines bright—because grace always leads us to true success.

Together let us guide our children not just to run the race, but to embrace the grace.
